

Sinclair Broadcast Group's recent actions are disturbing to me. There seems to be an obvious attempt to "bash" John Kerry by airing a documentary that seems to be sponsored by the unethical and questionable "Swift Boat Veterans for Truth".

I do believe that free speech gives them the right to air the documentary, however to air a program so blatantly unbalance and distorted is quite simply slander and NOT protected by the first ammendment in any way. To embed it in a "news" program is strategic but still slanderous.

Instead of something produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
